Promon Lens

Transforming mobile security conversations from abstract to actionable

Security is abstract. Value is hard to see.

In mobile security sales, the biggest barrier isn't the product—it's helping customers understand why they need it. When threats feel theoretical and protection seems invisible, closing deals becomes an uphill battle.

The Challenge We're Solving

Invisible Threats

Customers struggle to identify which specific threats target their unique applications and business models

Time Drain

Sales Engineers spend valuable meeting time explaining basic security concepts rather than demonstrating concrete value

Disconnected Tools

Promon Insight appears as an optional add-on instead of showcasing its power as a core security intelligence platform

The result? Conversations stall before they begin—or never start at all. Prospects remain unconvinced, and opportunities slip away.

Solution: Promon Lens

01

Personalized Threat Analysis

Make mobile security tangible by demonstrating exactly how threats apply to each customer's specific application and industry

02

Portfolio Mapping

Clearly illustrate how Promon's comprehensive security portfolio directly mitigates the identified threats

03

Automated Briefings

Generate precise, to-the-point briefing documents automatically—no manual research required

Sales Enablement

Connect Promon's portfolio to the customer's app before the meeting even starts, ensuring productive, value-focused conversations from minute one

Demand Generation

Enable self-guided app analysis directly on the Promon website, letting prospects discover their vulnerabilities independently
